

How LumaChart compares

Epic · Oracle Health (Cerner) · Jane — and where a well-being-first, compliance-native EHR wins.

	Epic	Oracle Health (Cerner)	Jane	LumaChart
Segment / setting	• Hospital & enterprise	• Hospital & enterprise	• Outpatient allied-health	✓ Hospital + public health
Design center	— Revenue cycle	— Revenue cycle	🕒 Practice management	✓ Well-being + a real note
Physician-burnout focus	— Assoc. with burden	— Assoc. with burden	🕒 Lighter UX (small clinics)	✓ The problem it treats
Evidence at point of care, cited on the record	🕒 Links out / add-on	🕒 Links out / add-on	— Not a focus	✓ Embedded · PMID + $ cited
ONC certification (45 CFR Part 170)	✓ Certified	✓ Certified	— Not a certified EHR	🕒 Certification by design (path)
Governed AI — registry · PCCP · kill switch	🕒 AI present; governance varies	🕒 AI present; governance varies	— Not a focus	✓ §170.315(b)(11) · FDA/PCCP
50-state + PR statutory-deadline engine	— Per-install config	— Per-install config	— Not a focus	✓ Built-in · with countdowns
Interoperability (FHIR · USCDI · TEFCA · SMART apps)	✓ Yes	✓ Yes	🕒 Limited / partner list	✓ Standards-native + app store
Transparent, published pricing	— Opaque, quote-only	— Opaque, quote-only	✓ Published	✓ Published + CMS 180 / GFE native
Public health / learning health system	🕒 Research (Cosmos)	🕒 Research network	— Not a focus	✓ Consented registry + RSI loop
Maturity (candid)	✓ Dominant, deployed	🕒 Deployed; rollout challenges	✓ Widely used (SMB)	🕒 Working prototype

Legacy EHRs make you compliant in the back office. LumaChart makes compliance a live, cited, 50-state instrument on the screen.